Yucky Worms

Grades JK-3 2011 Nutmeg Media

By Vivian French

Illustrated by Jessica Ahlberg

Here's to nature's recyclers! On a visit to his grandmother, a young boy is revolted by the "yucky" worm she digs up in the garden. But the boy changes his mind when he discovers how interesting worms can be and how they help the soil, plants and animals around the garden. This charming study is enhanced with appealing artwork and the witty remarks of the many worms who comment on all the action. A special segment titled, How To Be A Wormologist includes interesting garden experiments.

While the World is Sleeping

Grades JK-3 2010 15 min

Nutmeg Media

Written by Pamela Duncan Edwards

Illustrated by Daniel Kirk

Lyrical rhymes and luminous illustrations bring the nocturnal world to life in this reassuring fantasy. A magnificent snowy owl appears at a child's bedroom window with the invitation to "climb aboard" on a soaring ride through the moonlit night. Together, the owl and child visit a family of deer, fish in a stream, a porcupine, a mouse, a snake, a raccoon, a rat and a bat - all busily at work while the world is sleeping. Includes A Conversation with the Author and Illustrator

Family Pack

Grades JK-3 2011 Nutmeg Media

By Sandra Markle

Illustrated by Adam Marks

Based on events that occurred 1995 when 14 Canadian wolves were reintroduced to Yellowstone National Park, this story is based on the experiences of a female wolf who struggled to survive alone in the park's 2.2 million acres of wilderness. After a harsh winter without her pack, the story ends happily when the female finds a male wolf, and -with their cubs - they form a new pack. The program includes an Author's Note and a facts section called Gray Wolves Are Amazing! Includes A Conversation With the Author.

Blockhead: The Life of Fibonacci

Grades 2-5 2010 Spoken Arts

Written and introduced by Joseph D'Agnesi

Illustrated by John O'Brien

As a young boy in medieval Italy, Leonardo Fibonacci thought about numbers day and night. He was such a daydreamer that people called him a blockhead. When Leonardo grew up and traveled the world, he was inspired by the numbers used in different countries. Then he realized that many things in nature, from the number of petals on a flower to the spiral of a nautilus shell, seem to follow a certain pattern. The boy who was once teased for being a blockhead had discovered what came to be known as the Fibonacci Sequence!

The Story of Food

How Did That Get In my Lunchbox: The Story of Food

Grades 2011 Nutmeg Media

By Chris Butterworth

Illustrated by Lucia Gaggiotti

The best part of a young child's day is often opening a lunchbox and diving in. But how did all that delicious food get there? Who made the bread for the sandwich? What about the cheese inside? Who plucked the fruit? And where did the chocolate in that cookie get its start? From planting wheat to mixing flour into dough, climbing trees to machine-squeezing fruit, picking cocoa pods to stirring a vat of melted bliss, here is a clear, engaging look at the steps involved in producing some common foods. Healthy tips and a peek at basic food groups complete the menu.

The Great Race (reworking of Tortoise and Hare)

Grades JK-3 2011 Nutmeg Media

By Kevin O'Malley
Tired of listening to Lever Lapin boasting about being the fastest runner in the world, Nate Tortoise mumbles that he "could probably beat" the conceited hare in a race. No sooner are the words out of Nate's mouth, than the great hare himself accepts the challenge. On the day of the race, the crowd is solidly behind Lever who stops to give autographs, kiss the ladies and generally show off while Nate plugs away toward the finish line. This comic tongue-in-cheek retelling of Aesop's fable finishes with the time-honored moral presented as a clever pun: Better Nate Than Lever!" Includes A Conversation With the Author.

When Dinosaurs Came With Everything

Grades JK-3 2010 16 min Nutmeg Media

Written by Elise Broach

Illustrated by David Small
A day of boring errands turns into an amazing adventure for a boy and his mother when the bakery lady hands out a live triceratops instead of a cookie, the doctor's office gives away a stegosaurus instead of a sticker, and the barber offers a pterosaur with every haircut instead of a balloon!
Becoming more dismayed with every dinosaur they collect, the boy's mother ends their shopping day early - but not before the boys picks up a lost hadrosaur on the way home. The boy introduces the dinosaurs to their new home, and his mom eventually puts them all to work doing household chores. The story ends with a big party where everyone brings a dinosaur or two for a dip in the pool. This delightful over-the-top tongue-in-cheek tale ends with Mom ordering more donuts from the bakery - and more dinosaurs! Includes A Conversation with the Author and Illustrator.

Bats at the Ballgame

Grades JK-3 2010 13 min Nutmeg Media

Written, narrated and Illustrated by Brian Lies

They've been to the beach. They've patronized the library. And now, Brian Lies' adorable bats are going to watch--what else?--a baseball game. The third installment in this highly appealing series is full of charm and humour. As in his earlier books Bats at the Beach and Bats at the Library, Brian Lies creates a charming fantasy that turns a conventional human activity into a topsy-turvy nocturnal adventure. With luminous acrylic illustrations, Lies shares his vision of a night at the ballpark - for bats. The humour is everywhere, from flying vendors selling mothdogs and Cricket Jack to the grounds crew marking the base lines with powdered sugar to Lies' own bat version of "Take Me Out to the Ballgame." Includes a Conversation with the Author.

Internet Research and Information Literacy: Effective Strategies and Cautionary Tales

Grades 9-Adult 2011 19-22 min each Cambridge Educational

Thanks to the Internet, a virtual cosmos of information is at our fingertips. But does more equal better when helpful and not-so-helpful content are equally abundant? How is online propaganda different from traditional propaganda? What solutions do we have to the growing problem of plagiarism? This series illustrates best practices for viewers who are learning to apply academic standards and scholarly research methods to the rapidly evolving online world. Heavy hitters from the media industry weigh in through expert interviews, while lively motion graphics help explain concepts and strategies throughout the series. In addition, each episode features three young-adult characters, brought to life through graphic novel-style animation, who struggle with and learn the right and wrong ways to navigate cyberspace. ### Effective Internet Search: Basic Tools and Advanced Strategies

Formed decades ago from a small pool of data sources, the Internet has grown into a seemingly endless ocean of information—in which today's young researcher can easily get lost. This video introduces strategic, study-related online search methods that teenage or college-level viewers may not be familiar with, especially if they're accustomed to the more recreational side of the Internet. Outlining ways to formulate initial questions about a topic, the program offers examples of frequently used search engines (from Google to specialized databases) and how to take advantage of them using keywords, quotation marks, Boolean operators, nesting, wildcard and truncation symbols, and other typed-in directives. Result-oriented topics are also featured, including: the differences between primary, secondary, and tertiary sources; the best criteria for confirming the legitimacy of a particular Web site; and helpful techniques for searching within a site.

Recognizing Online Propaganda, Bias, and Advertising

While their motives aren't always evil, people who bend the truth don't usually do so for the greater good, either. The online world is no exception—in fact, it's a paradise for purveyors of hype, pseudo-journalism, and intellectual snake oil. This video explores ways to identify bias and propaganda on the Internet and sift through the various influences, such as political or corporate interests, that may be behind some Web content. Spotting key aspects of propaganda and bias-driven writing, such as the use of glittering generalities, name-calling, or card-stacking, the program also presents important tips for differentiating between advertising and genuinely useful, scholarly material—a task made increasingly difficult by cleverly disguised sponsorship. Web savvy is further developed through discussions of URL suffixes (.com, .org, etc.) and what they indicate.

Plagiarism 2.0: Information Ethics in the Digital Age

For a generation raised on the ideology of "open source" and the ability to quickly cut and paste, the concept of plagiarism may seem foreign or passé. And that, of course, can lead to trouble. This video examines the behaviours that constitute plagiarism, their consequences, and the best ways to avoid them. Showing how accidental copying as well as willful plagiarism can occur, the program lays out the dangers of cheating, then illustrates the pitfalls of non-attribution and patch writing while showing how to properly attribute and paraphrase a lengthy quotation. Copyright, trademark, and intellectual property concepts are clearly discussed, in addition to potential sources of non-copyrighted material. Common citation formats (APA, MLA, Bluebook, etc.) are listed along with the suggestion that the student confer with his or her instructor about them.

Anti-Bullying

The “Are YOU a Bully?” Test

Grades 5-9 2011 CC 20 min Human Relations Media

This unique program challenges students to think about their own behaviour by posing questions about physical, verbal, and exclusionary bullying, such as: Have you ever punched, shoved, or hit someone? Do you ever make fun of or tease others or call them mean names? Do you make fun of others because they are “different”? Have you purposely not invited someone to hang out with you? Do you gossip about others or spread rumours via text messages or social network sites? After each question, viewers hear from real middle school students describing their experiences as victims or perpetrators of bullying. Their stories and comments by Joel Haber, a leading bullying expert, show viewers the real impact of bullying.

Pushed to the Brink: Bullycide on the Rise

Grades 7-12 2011 CC 20 min Human Relations Media

Several recent tragedies have focused attention on the growing trend of bullycide—the term that describes those desperate instances of young people taking their own lives to escape from relentless harassment by their peers. This timely video follows multiple storylines to deliver the message that bullying can have enormous and tragic consequences. Commentary from Dr. Joel Haber, a clinical psychologist and recognized expert on bullying, identifies various forms of bullying—from obvious physical assaults to more indirect forms such as cyberbullying, spreading rumours, exclusion or verbal taunts. This unforgettable program includes important tips for dealing with bullies and urges students to join together and become proactive defenders of victims before they reach their breaking point. Most importantly, it opens the door for an important dialogue among all viewers—those who may be participants, witnesses or victims of peer intimidation and hostility.

Your Reputation:

Enhancing It, Repairing It

Grades 5-9 2011 CC 20 min

Human Relations Media

For middle schoolers, fitting in, being popular, having friends, and getting along with teachers is all important. Whether they are aware of it or not, the opinions and perceptions of peers, parents and teachers all contribute to a young teen's reputation—or the way others see them. Through the use of acted out vignettes, young viewers will understand the power of having a good reputation versus the pain of having a bad one. The program also gives pointers on how to repair a bad reputation which often takes a long time to achieve. The program includes a special section on one's on-line reputation and some of the pitfalls of social networking. #600567DV-NR2 $189: DVD, PDF guide & student handouts.

Cheating, Pressures, Choices and Values

Grades 5-9 2011 CC 20 min

Human Relations Media

Explores why young students may resort to cheating. More importantly, it challenges viewers to consider their own values and integrity. Dramatic scenarios portray different types of cheating: a student copies a friend's homework because she fears she doesn't have enough time to do the work herself; a boy enhances his essay by plagiarizing articles on the Internet; a tennis player tries to avoid being cut from a team by falsely calling her opponent's balls out; a high-achieving student must decide whether to give a popular student test answers as a sign of friendship. After each scenario, a moderator asks viewers about the characters' choices, what the potential consequences are, and what values should be considered when making such choices. #600568DV-NR2 $189: DVD, PDF guide & student handouts.

Combating Conflict with Character Series

Grades 7-12 2011 30 min ea Cambridge Educational

Preparing students for a standardized test is a monumental task, but equipping them for social and interpersonal conflict is every bit as challenging. This five-part series helps young viewers navigate the dilemmas surrounding bullying, peer pressure, prejudice, and unresolved anger—with an additional program focusing especially on conflict management and resolution. Emphasizing character-building as a prime ingredient in overcoming conflict, the series uses no-nonsense dramatizations, candid "school hallway" interviews, and expert commentary to define basic ideas, illustrate ways in which conflicts often play out, and ultimately present methods for diffusing them—based on honesty, awareness, and respect for others.

Dealing with Bullying

Why is bullying so widespread? What are the various forms it can take? How should a bullying victim react to intimidation and physical aggression, or—ideally—avoid becoming a victim in the first place? This video addresses those questions as it looks at the root causes and potential solutions to bullying dilemmas.

Handling Anger and Frustration

Let's face it—anger is a fact of life, an emotion everyone can relate to. But it isn't always handled well, and if it surges out of control, the effects can be devastating. This video examines the problems arising from extreme or repressed anger and presents helpful methods for loosening the grip that all-consuming rage can have on one's mind and actions.

Managing Conflict Resolution

A dynamic struggle between contrasting forces is necessary—it creates ideas and drives change. But as everyone knows, life is also filled with hurtful and even tragic forms of conflict. Students learn about both types of opposition in this video, which illustrates ways to use conflict constructively while avoiding violence, alienation, and resentment.

Leadership - Transformational Canadians

Transformational Canadians

Celebrate Canadians who have sought to make a difference!

2011 CC 80 min (3 disks) CTV

CTV has partnered with The Globe and Mail and Cyberpresse to celebrate Canadians who have sought to make a difference – not just by doing what they do, but through the demonstrable impact they've made on the world around them, whether in Canada or beyond. Through their vision, leadership and actions, each of these people has immeasurably improved the lives of others.

The Transformational Canadians program chose exceptional individuals drawn from across six fields: business, technology, the environment, education, health care and the community. All winners combined a passion for positive change with the discipline and focus to achieve outstanding results.

Dr. James Orbinski, Co-Founder of Dignitas International

The co-founder of Dignitas International says the world can be more fair and just, and requires energy and focus in people to change it. He explains motivation rooted in his experiences in war and famine has compelled him to achieve what he deems important.

Stephen Lewis

The chair of the Stephen Lewis Foundation discusses his fight against AIDS. He explains how he has worked for years to turn the tide of the disease and HIV in Africa.

DISK 2 INCLUDES:

Mike Lazardis, RIM

The president and co-CEO of Research In Motion discusses the Canadian-made device that changed the way people communicate.

John Furlong, CEO - Vancouver Olympics 2010

The CEO of the Vancouver Organizing Committee for the 2010 Olympic and Paralympics Winter Games discusses the impact of the Games had on our nation.

Police Chief Jim Chu, Vancouver Police Dept.

A 30-year veteran of the Vancouver Police Department discusses his work. He explains his great belief in community policing.

Geoff Green, Students on Ice

Students on Ice is an award-winning organization offering unique educational expeditions to the Antarctic and the Arctic. Their mandate is to provide students, educators and scientists with inspiring educational opportunities at the ends of the Earth and, in doing so, help them foster a new understanding and respect for the planet.

DISK 3 INCLUDES:

Tom Chau, Senior Scientist, Bloorview Research Institute

As one of the country's leading biomedical engineers, Dr. Chau's work in the field of pediatric rehabilitation gives kids with bright minds and physical challenges a form of communication adapted to their needs, allowing them to control their environment and giving them a means of self expression.

Dr. Gordon Keller, Director: McEwen Centre

Dr. Gordon Keller is the director of the McEwen Centre for regenerative medicine. The doctor has been chosen as a transformational Canadian, and he discusses his life's work in stem cell research.

Dr. Brenda Milner, Professor

She is a 92-year old professor in the Department of Neurology and Neurosurgery at the Montreal Neurological Institute and Hospital at McGill University. She is widely attributed with creating the field of cognitive neuroscience, the study of the brain and behaviour, for her fundamental contributions to the science of memory and cognitive functioning.

Internet Safety for Kids

Grades 3-6 2011 13 min Rising Star

“Presented in a style suitable for today’s tech literate students, this well-organized program is an excellent tool to jump-start conversations at home and lessons in school.” - School Library Journal

Children will grow in understanding their own value as they take a journey into the world of the Internet. Kids will discover Five Keys to staying safe online through a hip, fast-paced style and age-appropriate information. Through other kids Internet experiences (including one who was stalked by an Internet predator) children will learn:

- To appreciate the great value of the Internet and gain a respect for its dangers
- To make healthy choices regarding the Internet
- How to avoid being targeted by Internet predators
- The importance of sharing their online experiences with a parent or trusted adult

Me and My 500 “Friends”:

Staying Safe on Social Networks

Grades 7-Adult 2011 CC 20 min

Human Relations Media

This timely program provides teens with an essential safety primer on using social networks such as Facebook. Through interviews with experts and real-life young people, teens learn that social networks can be a useful tool for communication and connection, but also pose significant risks. Experts discuss how harmful rumours can be spread quickly as well as the danger of cyberbullying, or harassment that occurs through the internet, cell phones, and other technology. The risks of “sexting,” or posting sexually explicit images or materials online, are also covered. Viewers see how “phishers” and identity thieves can glean private information from what you post on social profiles; finally, the risk of encountering sexual predators is emphasized. The program provides important, easy-to-follow rules for keeping information—and oneself—safe while using social networks.

Think b4 u Post:

Your Reputation and Privacy on Social Networking Sites

Grades 7-12 2011 CC 22 min Films for the Humanities

A person normally wouldn’t shout out the details of a secret hookup or give a credit card to a total stranger and say “Max it out for me.” Yet as this video playfully points out, in effect that’s what people do when they post indiscreetly on social networking sites or are duped by phishing scams. Think b4 u Post uses a light touch to deliver some very serious information on how people can protect their reputation and guard their privacy online while still having a good time using social networking sites. On the “reputation” side, viewers are advised to keep their postings positive, remember that “intended readers” (friends) are only a subset of “actual readers” (friends, teachers, prospective employers...), and more. And on the “privacy” side, viewers are made aware of the consequences of cyberbullying and defamation as well as steps they can take to safeguard their personal information and avoid online/offline predators. Data mining is also discussed.

Dangers of Social Networking Video Clip Collection

2010 23 min Films for the Humanities

No one doubts the power of social media to create positive connections among people who might otherwise never meet. But that same power has an ominous side. It can draw together individuals who should, in fact, not meet—such as predatory adults and gullible minors. It can facilitate bullying, emotional trauma, and cybercrime. And it can be highly addictive. This collection of five ABC News segments examines the issues in ways that are sure to spark discussion and further study. Contains mature content. Viewer discretion is advised. Clip duration ranges from 2 to 6 minutes.

Video clips include:

- Facebook Stole My Identity: The story of a teenager who had his Social Security number and financial information hijacked after playing an online game.
- Kicking Teens' Facebook Addictions: Profiles of teens who have become "hooked" on Facebook, followed by a discussion with online safety expert Parry Aftab.
- Cyberbullying Blamed for Teen's Suicide: Did Facebook harassment cause a 15-year-old to take her own life? Fellow students and Internet safety expert Parry Aftab comment.
- The Dangers of Facebook: A report on several cases in which unsuspecting Facebook users were manipulated into dangerous and sometimes deadly situations.
- Chatroulette—Talking to Strangers: Inside a new online craze which connects users at random, enabling both harmless and explicit chat. It is free and open to minors.

Intimate Details: Investigating Canada's Big Cyber Security Problem: W5

Grades 11-Adult 2010 CC 20 min CTV

W5 hacks into the sophisticated world of cyber thieves trying to access your money, credit card data and personal information. According to a recent study, Canadians spend more time online than anyone else in the world. But can all this internet use make us the perfect prey for hackers? CTV's W5 investigates the places where connected Canadians are at their most vulnerable. With just a few savvy technical skills and some widely available software, hackers can steal a great deal of personal information. Now these techniques are being utilized by foreign governments to carry out targeted cyber crimes.

The Sexting Crisis Video Clip Collection

2010 34 min Films for the Humanities

Immersed in technology and caught up in the impulse of the moment, a teenager sends a sexually explicit text message to one of his or her classmates—and ruins a life in a matter of seconds. Exaggeration? Sadly, no. This collection of six ABC News segments makes clear to viewers the dangers involved in what has become known as "sexting"—a form of spontaneous free expression which, all too often, becomes a digital avenue for bullying, harassment, and self-destructive behaviour. Parents, educators, legal authorities, and teens all take part in these illuminating and sometimes disturbing stories. Contains mature content. Viewer discretion is advised. Clip duration ranges from 2 to 10 minutes.

Video clips include:

- Sexting and Teens: A look at the disturbing trend of kids snapping lewd photos with their phones—and the legal fallout. Vicky Mabrey visits a Pennsylvania town in which a teenage girl and other students face charges for what they see as harmless texting.
- The Consequences of Sexting: Twenty percent of teens admit to engaging in X-rated text messaging. Gigi Stone reports on two teen boys who forwarded nude photos of a female classmate and will likely be charged with transmission of child pornography.
- Sexting Spreading Among Teens: Sending explicit pictures using cell phones is becoming increasingly popular among young people. Gigi Stone presents stories of arrests and prosecutions from around the country.
- Teen Sex Gone Viral: A profile of 18-year-old Phillip Alpert, who was forced to register as a sex offender after being convicted of trafficking in child porn—specifically, photos of his 16-year-old girlfriend, emailed in a moment of anger.
- Parents Discuss Sexting with Teens: Diane Sawyer moderates a group talk involving parents, teens, and experts—covering the basic issue of sexting, its short- and long-term consequences, and ways to educate young people about steering clear of it.
- Parental Text Control: Becky Worley examines the uses and implications of software and other high-tech protective measures which can help parents prevent the unsafe use of cell phones, digital photos, and text messaging.

Making Stuff - Educator's Edition: NOVA

Grades 9-Adult 2011 CC 240 min/3 discs PBS

From the deck of a Navy aircraft carrier to the driver's seat in a demolition derby, the MAKING STUFF Educator's Toolkit showcases materials pushed to the extreme and provides tools that give students an inside look at advances in tensile strength, bioplastic, shrinking microchips, and more.

Making Stuff: Stronger - What is the strongest material in the world? Is it iron? Are Kevlar and carbon nanotubes the way of the future, or will the powerful properties discovered in natural spider silk one day replace steel?

Making Stuff: Smaller - How small can we go? Could we one day have robots taking "fantastic voyages" in our bodies to kill rogue cells? The triumphs of tiny are seen all around us in the Information Age: transistors, microchips, laptops, cell phones.

Making Stuff: Smarter - What can nature teach us in building smarter materials? Can we create materials that sense and respond? "When describing 'smart materials,' one analogy scientists give is the evolution from the first Terminator robot, a machine made of metal and circuitry, to the shape-shifting 'liquid guy' in Terminator 2," said Making Stuff producer Chris Schmidt

Making Stuff: Cleaner - Most modern materials are dangerous to the environment, but what about cleaning up our world? Batteries grown from viruses, tires made from orange peel oil, plastics made of sugar, and solar cells that cook up hydrogen-these are just a few glimpses of a new generation of clean materials that could power devices of the future

Objects and Materials

Grade 1 2011 13 min

Have you ever seen a professional baseball player hit a homerun with a bat made of glass or a hockey player take a slapshot with a stick made of paper? In this fun, educational and entertaining video, students are invited into a science lab where they meet the zany Professor Peter Plankton and his adorable partner, Professor Tess Tube. Professor Plankton takes us on a whirlwind tour around the world as he ends up in the Brazilian rainforest dressed for winter, and in the snowy north dressed for the beach. Thankfully, Professor Tube is on hand to get him back to the lab where they demonstrate the "science of materials and objects". Students will join in the romp as they learn that objects are all around us, and that all objects are made of materials such as plastic, wood, glass, and steel. The two professors demonstrate the various properties of a material and an object. Students are introduced to vocabulary such as shiny, hard, smooth, and flexible. Short, fun experiments demonstrate key concepts. Throughout the program, students are encouraged to be environmentally responsible as the 3 R's (Reducing, Reusing and Recycling) are introduced.

Structures: Man-made and Natural

Grade 3 2011 22 min

Structures are all around us. Take a look. Structures include bridges, buildings, chairs, shoes, spider webs, beehives, anthills, tables and even your own body. Structures are made by man and also found in nature.

This program looks at various made-made and natural structures found all over the world. Through the use of fun experiments and short skits in their science lab, our two engaging hosts, Professor Peter Plankton and Professor Tess Tube help young students explore the science of structures. They learn that both humans and animals build specific structures with specific functions and that structures have many forms. Students are introduced to the complex, yet intriguing honeycomb structure that bees build. We look at modern day structures as well as those used by the First Nations people and other cultures around the world. In addition, students are introduced to the concept of reducing, reusing and recycling, and how structures impact the surrounding environment.

Forces Acting on Structures

Grades 5-8 2011 24 min

Structures are all around us. Everywhere we go; everywhere we look. They come in all shapes and sizes. Some are made by people while others are natural. Structures provide us with shelter and protection. All structures have forces acting on them. In this video, Professor Peter Plankton and Professor Tess Tube examine these forces. They specifically look at the impact of earthquakes and tornadoes. Footage from the recent earthquake and tsunami in Japan shows the devastating impact of these natural forces. Students will learn the difference between internal forces and external forces; live load vs. dead load; the various types of forces including compression and tension; materials and their properties; and the environmental impact of these events.

The Science of Flight and Aerodynamics

Grades 5-8 2011 25 min

Building on the Properties of Air DVD, this program introduces students to the science of flight and aerodynamics. Once students understand the properties of air, they begin to look at how air makes flight possible. For thousands of years, humans dreamed of flying, but it isn't as easy as birds make it look. Students now learn about lift, gravity, thrust and drag -- the four forces that make it possible for an airplane to fly. Our two hosts also examine Bernoulli's Principle, Newton's Third Law of Motion, the Angle of Attack, natural and man-made objects that use airfoils and how a pilot controls the airplane. In addition, students learn about the history of flight in Canada.

Remembrance Day

11 NOVEMBER

In Flanders Fields

poem by Lieutenant Colonel John McCrae, 3 May 1915

In Flanders fields the poppies blow
Between the crosses, row on row,
That mark our place; and in the sky
The larks, still bravely singing, fly
Scarce heard amid the guns below.

We are the Dead. Short days ago
We lived, felt dawn, saw sunset glow,
Loved and were loved, and now we lie,
In Flanders fields.

Take up our quarrel with the foe:
To you from failing hands we throw
The torch; be yours to hold it high,
If ye break faith with us who die
We shall not sleep, though poppies grow
In Flanders fields.

lest we forget

What Would You Do? Series 2:

Instinctive Reactions and What They Reveal

2011 56 in each Films for the Humanities

We all know that drugs and alcohol heighten the chances of violence, sexual aggression, and deadly accidents. And we know that discrimination against race, disability, or sexual orientation is illegal as well as utterly wrong. But when we're suddenly confronted with these kinds of abuses, what do we do? What would you do? This two-part ABC News series captures raw responses to troubling situations with the help of actors and hidden cameras. Whether compelled to take action or to mind his or her own business, each unwitting participant makes a split-second decision—one that is often as emotionally revealing as it is surprising.

Confronting Drug and Alcohol Abuse

A young woman uses the restroom at a busy restaurant. While she's away, her date cracks open a small capsule and spikes her drink with white powder. Onlookers are aghast—but do any of them take action? Truth be told, the young man and woman are actors in a hidden-camera scenario created to find out how unsuspecting observers will react. Other provocative set-ups featured in this compilation of ABC News segments: a bar customer attempting to take home a seemingly drunk woman he has just met; an apparently tipsy woman trying to persuade sober passersby to breathe into her car's breathalyzer so she can run an errand; and two different alcohol-drenched hazing sessions involving male, then female, initiates. Each segment gives viewers the chance to ask themselves: What would you do?

Taking a Stance against Racism and Discrimination

They're an average family at a typical restaurant. They also happen to be Hispanic. From out of nowhere, an off-duty security guard asks to see their documentation, and as he grows more insistent, the other diners nervously consider what steps, if any, to take. It's a scenario drawn from real life, no doubt, but in this case, the guard and the family are actors in a hidden-camera ABC News segment—one designed to spark reactions from onlookers. Several other staged dilemmas are also included here: Jewish customers face an anti-Semitic cashier, hearing-impaired job seekers aren't allowed to fill out applications, an HIV-positive man is subjected to verbal attacks, and an African-American man is accosted for having a white daughter.

What Is Puberty?

Designed to be viewed by both male and female students and covers the definition of puberty, the endocrine system, hormones, glands and the changes at puberty that both girls and boys have in common. The development of new body hair, body odor and good hygiene are also discussed.

Girls and Puberty

Focuses on the changes girls experience during puberty and includes a discussion of female reproductive anatomy, hormones in girls, ovulation, and emotional issues. Although designed to be viewed by girls-only groups, the video is also appropriate for gender mixed classes.

Boys and Puberty

Focuses on the changes boys experience during puberty including male reproductive anatomy, hormones in boys, spermatogenesis, hygiene and emotional issues. Appropriate for both sexes or for boys-only viewing.

New Emotions, New Feelings

Features both male and female students discussing how hormones trigger the new social and emotional changes experienced during puberty. These experiences include independence from parents, new friends, and new romantic feelings.

The ABC's of HIV and AIDS

Uses age-appropriate language to clearly illustrate how HIV is transmitted. Easy-to-follow animation shows how HIV attacks the immune system and how it eventually can develop into AIDS. Two on-camera physicians answer kids' questions about AIDS transmission and prevention. Video clearly states that any type of sexual activity with another person is not appropriate at this age.

Am I Ready? Making Healthy Sexual Decisions

Grades 7-Adult 2011 CC 20 min Human Relations Media

In this edgy, true-to-life program, real teenagers and health experts talk frankly about the importance of healthy decision-making when it comes to sexual activity. The program unpacks the many factors that go into a young person's decision to become sexually active or not, beginning with a discussion of sexual pressure from the media, peers and partners. Viewers are reminded that more than half of all students do not have sex before graduating from high school. Teens and health experts discuss the epidemic of sexually transmitted infections among youth and the life-changing effects of an unplanned pregnancy. Viewers learn how to reduce their risk for both by correctly using condoms and other forms of contraception. Presents abstinence as a healthy choice for teens and emphasizes the benefits of delaying sexual activity.

Human Relations Media

This uniquely interactive program asks viewers a series of questions to help them focus on whether or not they have a problem with alcohol and other drugs. Questions include: Does your use of drugs or alcohol cause problems at school or at home? Have you found that you need increased amounts of alcohol or other drugs in order to get intoxicated or high? Do you feel like you would like to cut down or control your drinking or use of other drugs but can't? After each question, viewers hear the personal reflections of young recovering addicts and comments from a leading addiction expert. At the end of the program, students are asked to assess their responses. Program also offers specific advice about how to get help.

Steroids: Big Muscles, Bigger Problems

Grades 9-Adult 2011 25 min Cambridge Educational
A lot of time, energy, and media coverage has been spent trying to figure out which high-profile athletes have or have not used steroids, and whether or not the users still belong in the record books. Lost in the shuffle is the story of the damage that steroids can cause, not just to celebrity sports stars but to everyday young people—including teenage girls, the fastest-growing demographic group of steroid users in America. Hosted by ESPN.com reporter Tom Murray, this video brings hard facts, straight talk, and inconvenient truths to the problem of steroid use among male and female teenagers. Essential viewing for any health, guidance, or physical education program.

Attack of the Mutants: Will Genetic Doping Replace Steroids?

Grades 9-Adult 2010 52 min Films for the Humanities
In the not-so-distant future, athletes and other physically active people won't use needles, pills, or stick-ons for extra strength and endurance—those traits will be cultivated genetically. But one person's athletic utopia is another's sci-fi nightmare, and the World Anti-Doping Agency is already raising the alarm. This program examines the controversy in the wider context of biomedical advances as well as in the arena of sports. Featured case studies include gene therapy experiments with mice conducted by famed researcher Dr. Nadia Rosenthal and several other genetically relevant medical examples. Contains brief posterior nudity related to steroid use testing.

Gambling Boys

Grades 9-College/Univ 2010 42 min EyeSteelFilm
Gambling Boys delves into the world of teen gambling, a world that offers excitement, the potent allure of making big money, and as many are discovering, the potential for serious addiction problems. And with the barrage of marketing campaigns, television coverage of poker tournaments, and easy access to online gaming, it is no surprise that teens are increasingly affected. Experts are finding that the rate of problem gamblers among young people is two to four times higher than for adults. Gambling Boys offers a poignant and lively picture of teens' fascination with gambling and the harsh consequences of getting hooked.

Taxes and Tax Benefits

If you earn money, spend money, or save money, you have to pay taxes. If the money you save earns money, you have to pay taxes on that, too. This program explains the essentials of taxes, helping students to become well-informed about both earned and investment income taxes, workplace tax benefits, and filing an annual return. It covers paycheck deductions, the W-2 and W-4 forms, guidelines for using the 1040-EZ form, and tax breaks such as exemptions, deductions, and credits. Compelling graphical breakdowns urge young viewers to pay into a 401(k) plan, even if they'd prefer to spend that money now. Highlights include a demonstration of how large even a modest 401(k) contribution can grow over 30 years, and when to itemize deductions.

Stock & Awe Series

A fun, new Canadian-produced approach to financial literacy for Grade 9 and up!

2010/2011 8 episodes – 22 min ea #BNN000DV-NR2

“Odd, sarcastic and with a dash of sitcom melodrama, ‘Stock & Awe’ mixes basic financial advice with humour to teach viewers about a world where the TSX and Dow Jones are consulted like daily horoscopes. One of their financial tips: keep a separate wallet for receipts -- just not a Louis Vuitton wallet. The show also uses street interviews to highlight how many of us lack basic financial knowledge. Advice is offered, and hopefully future shows will move from the financial basics to more detailed tips.” – Walleepop Canada

GICs, TFSAs, ETFs -- it may seem like a lot of jargon, but these acronyms can make the difference between living paycheque to paycheque and getting the most out of your money. In this new series produced by Canada’s Business News Network (BNN), host Hilary Doyle mixes business TV and the world of sitcoms in ‘Stock & Awe.’ As a fictionalized version of herself in Stock and Awe, Doyle plays a TV business reporter who doesn’t know much about business. When a friend finally points out the shocking precariousness of Doyle’s personal position, she vows to become more knowledgeable and secure her financial future.

From socialite to social pariah, Hilary Doyle, rogue business reporter, is living proof that economics isn’t all theoretical. If this girl is to maintain both career and shoe collection, if she is to retire before joining the century club, if she is to move out of storage and replace her lawn chair with an actual mattress, this woman will need a miracle, a dead aunt, and an army of financial experts (who’ll work for free), to rocket her out of the red and restore her rep.

Calling on some of the brightest minds on Bay Street, Hilary sets forth with determination, a pre-dawn show, and a propensity for dance numbers, to make sense of the markets, the indexes, stocks, bonds, diversification, RRSPs, TFSAs, mutual funds and ETFs, trading, timing, taxation, strategy, commodities, ethics, psychology, and everything else you’ve feared you might never really understand, but pretend at dinner parties that you do.

Looking Ahead: Exiting Your Business

It might seem contradictory, but decisions about how to end a company are just as important as the dreams that give birth to it. There may even be reasons that make a pre-planned exit strategy mandatory, such as the specific needs of investors. This video explores various end-game scenarios for business owners, helping to clarify long-term goals for anyone on the verge of creating a company while detailing the possibilities and challenges that each type of conclusion involves. Viewers are introduced to the pros and cons of being bought out in installments; selling a company outright to a friendly party or a competitor; merging with another firm, including the option of staying on in some capacity; going the IPO route, an expensive and rarely pursued option but one worth discussing; and liquidation, with its need for proper record-keeping, government paperwork, and asset sell-offs or storage. In all cases, the focus is on walking away with the best possible outcome.

The Micro Debt: A Critical Investigation

2011 CC 60 min Films for the Humanities

For decades, experts have hailed microcredit as the paramount solution to global poverty. But there is a lesser-known version of that story in which Grameen bank founder Mohammad Yunus and other promoters of miniaturized finance appear to serve mostly their own interests. Bringing to light a range of potentially unethical practices and policies, this program explores the microcredit system that has been implemented across much of the developing world.

2011 CC 60 min (3 programs) PBS

Money and March Madness - Take an inside look at the multi-billion dollar business of the NCAA and its brand of amateur college sports. In this investigation, correspondent Lowell Bergman gains access to Sonny Vaccaro, a former marketing executive at Nike, Adidas, and Reebok who helped bring about the rapid commercialization of college basketball. Vaccaro's success made coaches, administrators, and companies rich. But the players remain at the mercy of the NCAA, which, despite a new $10.8 billion contract for its basketball tournament, has continued to insist that the athletes don't get paid. Now, Vaccaro has left the business world and he's spearheading a class-action lawsuit that aims to ensure that players get a piece of the action.

Also included:

Who's Afraid of Ai Weiwei-- FRONTLINE presents this intimate portrait of a man who's sometimes called China's Andy Warhol--Ai Weiwei.

The Private Life of Bradley Manning - Later in the hour, as the WikiLeaks fall-out continues, FRONTLINE presents an exclusive interview with Brian Manning, Private Bradley Manning's father, who speaks out for the first time about why he still believes his son did not hand over the largest cache ever of classified documents to the whistle-blowing site.

Doing The Job: Starting Out and the Daily Grind

"My first day, my mind was reeling." "I didn't want to make any mistakes." "I was worried I wouldn't be able to do the job." All of these are common and valid reactions to the first day of employment. But, as this video illustrates, a new hire's nervousness and uncertainty can be the flipside of excitement, ambition, and an eagerness to learn the ins and outs of the company. Pointers on navigating office politics, respecting the chain of command, asking for a raise, and staying alert for new opportunities are also included.

World Food Crops: Grains and Legumes

Grains and legumes feed half of the world's growing population and also make fascinating subjects for propagation. Volume Seven covers the propagation methods for the major cereal crops (including "The Big Three") as well as legume crops, such as soybeans, peanuts and lentils. Harvesting, threshing, winnowing and grinding techniques are demonstrated by both hand tools and modern machines. By following the program's step-by-step procedures, students will gain valuable experience and develop a greater appreciation for the food staples we all eat.

#SLP049DV-NR2 $119: DVD

World Food Crops: Tropicals

Volume Eight presents the reproduction techniques as well as cultural information for food staples grown in tropical regions. These economically-important crops feed much of the world's population yet most of these plants are practically unknown in the USA. The program shows the easiest ways to propagate tropical food staples such as cassava, taro, sorghum, true yams, plantains and bananas. We will also show how these plants can be processed and how to prepare meals and snacks using these valuable fruits, roots and canes. Tropical plants need shelter from freezing temperatures but are otherwise surprisingly easy to propagate and care for.

World Food Crops: Roots

Roots are one of the most nutritional foods on earth, still so many easy-to-grow and delicious root crops never make it to the market. This program presents step-by-step propagation techniques for common as well as unusual root crops grown and eaten throughout the world. Learn about propagation methods for root and tuber crops of the Andes mountain range. South American roots such as oca, mashua and maca are easy to grow in temperate climates since they come from the higher, cooler elevations of the rugged Andes. As a bonus we'll show new techniques (not covered in previous volumes) for growing potatoes and sweet potatoes- two of the most important crops in the world.

Designing for Innovation and Safety

Decades ago, Volvo's famous safety features were the least appealing part of their cars, at least from an aesthetic standpoint. Now designers work with engineers from the beginning of the development process to make sure that Volvo remains competitive on all fronts. In this program Volvo representatives address the issue of combining safety features with good design while maintaining brand identity. Using the Volvo S60 as a case study, a design director discusses the challenges of balancing its pedestrian recognition technology with the overall look, feel, and performance of the car.

What Are You Thinking?:

Teacher Education & Learning Disabilities

Conferring in Reader's Workshop Patrick A. Allen

For Grade 3-5 Teachers

2011

96 min

Stenhouse

Publishers

Have you ever wanted to sit down beside a master teacher and see how he or she confers? In this DVD, join Patrick Allen, author of Conferring: The Keystone of Reader's Workshop, as he confers with nine different students over the course of two days.

Sitting down one-on-one with a student in a conference is the best way to differentiate instruction so all students can learn the comprehension skills and strategies that wise readers use and possess. Patrick demonstrates how to connect with readers, how to monitor their progress through individual records, and, perhaps most important, how to make children love books and reading while honoring their individuality. Let's face it: conferring in reader's workshop is hard work. There is no script or program that plans for all the ways a conference can be managed.

Throughout What Are You Thinking? Patrick provides a strong model for navigating the open-ended possibilities that each reader brings to a reading conference. In the lesson on Determining Importance in Text, we see Patrick model how readers decide what is essential in the text they are reading and then watch as he confers with his students about the decisions they are making while reading. Each of the nine conferences has a different instructional focus, including vocabulary, appropriate text choice, expository text, and reading with a writer's eye. This DVD will leave you ready to confer with readers in your classroom!

National Professional Resources

From one of the leading authorities, Dr. Nancy French, comes a comprehensive and powerful two-set DVD for the effective supervision and training of paraeducators. In order to most effectively utilize paraeducators, schools need to provide an environment where teachers "coach" and paraeducators "learn" to better understand their roles and responsibilities. This DVD program addresses the supervision and support of paraeducators as they work in:

- Inclusive/co-teaching classrooms
- Response To Intervention (RTI) and data collection roles
- Implementing instructional accommodations modifications
- Student supervision and behaviour monitoring

This DVD set is cost-effective for the training of both teachers and paraeducators.

Oops, Wrong Planet: Understanding Asperger's Syndrome

2008 55 min Films for the Humanities

Einstein, Beethoven, Mozart, Van Gogh: all displayed symptoms of Asperger's syndrome. But not every person with Asperger's is a genius. This program follows a self-described eccentric who, after discovering he matches up with the general Asperger's profile, sets out on a quest to learn all he can about the disorder, and whether he truly does have it. Along the way, he speaks with author Michael Fitzgerald, Professor Temple Grandin, Professor Alan Snyder, Wired magazine's Steve Silberman, Professor Simon Baron-Cohen, and a number of children and adults with AS about topics ranging from Asperger's traits, to possible causes of the condition, to "Geek Syndrome" and the AQ Test. A warm and understanding look into the very different world of autism spectrum disorders.
