AN INTIMATE LOOK INTO ONE OF THE WORLDS MOST VISIONARY ARTISTS.

“A MUST-HAVE for your school or library”

The Maker of Monsters: The Extraordinary Life of Beau Dick

Grades 9-Post Sec 2017 CC 92 min Athene Films Inc.

WINNER Cultural Currents Award: 2018 Victoria Film Festival

Official Selection: Vancouver International Film Festival

“The film touches on Indigenous history in Canada and how Dick’s masks are an important learning tool in an era of truth and reconciliation.” – Toronto Star

Maker of Monsters gives an intimate look into the life of one of Canada’s greatest artists. The late Beau Dick was a Kwakwaka’wakw carver from Alert Bay, a small remote village on the Northwest Coast of British Columbia. His remarkable masks have been celebrated across the global art scene as vibrant expressions of West Coast Indigenous culture and a sophisticated crossover into the contemporary art world. Dick had an unprecedented ability to tap into the collective memory of his people and breathe new life into age - old traditions.

This film strives to capture the essence of Beau Dick and his mysterious enigma as an artist who symbolized Canada’s history with the Indigenous and the ethical dilemmas faced in reconciling with that colonialist history. Beau was able to use his celebrity to call attention to the injustices done to his people and the environment.

In reaching into his past, the stories of the Kwakwaka’wakw nations are also brought to the forefront; their rich history, their dramatic mythology, and the deep scars left by colonialism. Weaving together the personal and cultural until both become inseparable, Maker of Monsters presents an artist who succeeded in reconciling the two.

SHIFT: Break Your Own Trail

Grades 7-Post Sec 2017 CC 30 min

Shot in the Dark Productions

People’s Choice Award – Banff Film Festival

WINNER: Fernie Mountain Film Festival 2017

FINALIST: Vancouver International Film Festival

Official Selection – Wild & Scenic Film Festival 2018

SHIFT is a short documentary about the Indigenous youth from the Carcross-Tagish First Nation in the Yukon who have spent the past 10 years converting traditional trails around their town into a world-class mountain biking destination -- and transforming their community and themselves along the way. The trail building program was implemented to connect youth to their culture and the land. This is a program about how land claim agreements are empowering First Nations and what one First Nation has done with that opportunity. It is also a film about change and the benefits of being an active participant in the change happening around you. The film presents a modern twist on integrating the Indigenous community with their tribal lands. Instead of hunting, fishing and trapping, they are building world class bike trails. This is where healing begins with meaningful work, connection to their tribal lands and having fun with other young people.

The 8-part docu-drama series, 1491: The UNTOLD STORY OF THE AMERICAS BEFORE COLUMBUS, will create a scientific and cultural narrative of Indigenous origins and reveal a world that represents the authentic pre-contact history of the Americas.

Presented from an Indigenous-perspective the series is a journey along a timeline that dates from 20,000 years ago to 1491. The origins and history of ancient Indigenous societies in North, Central and South America are interpreted by leading Indigenous scholars and cultural leaders in the fields of archaeology, art history, ethnology, genetics, geology, and linguistics.

The series is based on the book, 1491: New Revelations of the America Before Columbus, by Charles C. Mann.

🇨🇦 Grades 1-5 2018 CC 20 episodes x 7 min ea Apartment 11 Productions

Raven's Quest features first-person stories told by Indigenous children from across the country. The series visits different political and physical regions in Canada, including: the lush landscape of British Columbia to visit a girl from the Haida Nation who demonstrates how to make a cedar bark basket; the city of Ottawa, where an Inuit girl explains the importance of throat singing; and Nova Scotia where a boy who is Mi'kmaq shares his passion for traditional dancing.

The series introduces children to the diversity of Indigenous communities, showing the different languages, territories, and traditions of each nation. Most importantly, we see that even though the lives of Indigenous children are similar to other Canadian children, their lives on and off reserves are enriched by their cultural traditions and knowledge. Today, when children learn about residential schools and some of the hardships on reserves, they may be left with negative stereotypes of the viability of Indigenous communities. For this reason, this series is very important to counter this looming typecast by presenting the lives of Indigenous communities and children in a positive light with an age-appropriate format.

(Dis)placed: Indigenous Youth and the Child Welfare System

Grades 9-Post Sec 2017 CC 42 min Melissa Brittain

Canada's colonial practice of forcibly removing Indigenous children from their families did not end with the closing of Indian residential schools. It continues today in the form of provincial and territorial child welfare systems, which remove Indigenous children and youth at alarmingly high rates.

This film features the voices of Indigenous youth as they reflect on their prior involvement with child welfare and share their multiple strategies of resistance to assimilation and state control. Adding to these insights, First Nations child advocate Cindy Blackstock traces the term 'neglect', the main rationale for child welfare removals, to its roots in the residential school system, and points to laws that codify structural discrimination, the leading cause of child welfare (dis)placements.

Featuring: Tyler Blackface, Cindy Blackstock, Tia Ledesma, Brianna Olsen and Donovan Waskahat.

The Reason I Dance

Grades 6-12 2018 CC 23 mins LeMay Media

In this new program, Josée discusses her father's existence as part of the 60's Scoop when 20,000 Canadian Indigenous children were placed in foster homes or put up for adoption. This, and an early introduction to powwow ceremonies helped shape Josee's mission to connect with her culture. And this ultimately became a reason why she dances.

Her message is a statement of a growing strength of a people who once were banned from ceremonies and dancing. In this program, Josee gives us insight into the jingle and fancy shawl dances, as well as explaining the significance of regalia, too often confused with "costumes." She provides insight into many historical truths such as the Buffalo Bill travelling shows that portrayed "Indians" as savages and cowboys as the 'good guys.' Dancing provides healing and she encourages us to all to think about how we as individuals can play a part in the action of reconciliation. She asks that people attend powwows and begin to understand and open their hearts to her culture.

Lacrosse: A Nation's Game

Grades 6-12 2018 CC 53 min Numan Productions Inc.

This is NOT just a sports film! It is a beautifully shot film that delves deep into a game that has roots far deeper than simply sport. It is a part of our country's rich history, from its Indigenous founders, to those that helped shape the modern game into what it is today. The game was a gift from the Creator and it had spiritual and healing purposes. For Indigenous people, it was a training ground, a way to develop endurance, toughness, and tactics in learning how to use the stick to protect yourself and attack your enemy. Hundreds of players would play on terrain that could span several kilometres. Around the time of confederation, the game was modernized and popularized by Dr. George Beers, who would become known as "The father of modern lacrosse."

Featuring interviews with faithkeepers, stick makers, coaches, and historians, and full of beautiful archive photos and video, Lacrosse: A Nation's Game details the rich history of lacrosse in Canada from its Indigenous origins to the 150th anniversary celebration of the sport in 2017.

The narrative follows the life of Filip Konowal, the only Ukrainian Canadian to receive the Victoria Cross, awarded for his part in the Battle of Hill 70 and Vimy Ridge. His war-time exploits are almost unbelievable, killing 22 of the enemy in 48 hours, sometimes with his bare hands. But it came with a price. At first welcomed home as a hero, Konowal began to suffer severe PTSD (undiagnosed at the time) and was eventually committed to an institution. While he was under psychiatric care, the Canadian government began deportation proceedings to have him sent back to what was at this point the USSR — where he would face imprisonment or worse. The government, overwhelmed by the demands from returning veterans, decided in the 1920s to deport any wounded vets who were not naturalized citizens. Against all odds, Konowal prevailed and even found himself working on Parliament Hill in the 1940s for Mackenzie King.

"Chock full of dirty little secrets about the global shipping industry" - Times Colonist.

Due to their size and the immense amount of fuel they burn, ships belong to one of the most polluting industries in the world. Ships are allowed to burn the dirtiest fuel on the planet. 17 of the largest ships emit more sulfur than all the cars on the planet. How is this possible?

As consumers, we have become used to the cheap and quickly delivered goods from around the world. We are 'Sea Blind' to the serious consequences of shipping our stuff. It costs just .12 cents to ship a pair of running shoes but the impact on the environment is far beyond that.

A powerful and enlightening documentary examining the impact of consumerism, climate change, energy transition, arctic development, pollution, globalization, international politics and legislation, big business and engaged citizenship. While the film informs about little known practices and the weaknesses of the shipping industry, it does not point fingers of blame. We are all implicated! Consumers, supply chain operators, energy producers, bunkering facilitators, ship owners are all part of the problem.

The issues raised in the film are relevant to policy fields not only in shipping but also environmental sustainability, endangered heritage and the future of energy.

This documentary tells the story a young polar bear's epic migration through the icy waters of Hudson Bay and his subsequent adventures on land, where he must spend the ice-free season. It is his first summer alone without his mother to guide and feed him. His struggle to survive is set against the biggest environmental story of our time: climate change.

When we think of polar bears we think of snow and ice, but for thousands of years, the polar bears of Western Hudson Bay have spent their summers on land. As the ice melt they are forced to migrate over hundreds of kilometers using the stars. Their mothers teach them. It is a route that they will follow for the rest of their lives. As the ice-free season grows longer, so does the amount of time they must spend on land. With little or no food, hordes of biting insects, and intense pressure from other bears – it is unbearable! #I Have Seen the Change – The Flood

Grade 7-Post Sec 2018 CC 16 min LeMay Media

According to Environment Canada, floods are the costliest natural disaster in Canada in terms of property damage. They are also the most common. In this new production from filmmaker Matt LeMay, we look at extreme weather events, in particular flooding. Using Belleville, ON as the primary example, we hear homeowners discuss their fears and experiences as the rising waters of Lake Ontario pummelled their homes and properties in the spring of 2017. Communities across the country experienced similar disasters. Brian Kelly, Manager of Sustainability for the Region of Durham discusses the importance of communities learning to adapt to the impact of climate change to mitigate the risks.

Important infrastructure changes must take place across the country as many culverts, drainage ditches, river banks, roads and bridges were designed for the climate we experienced 50+ years ago. For too long, we have fuelled the needs of industry at the expense of the environment and safety of our communities.

Air Pollution and Your Health: What You Should Know

Grades 10 - Post Sec 2018 CC 19 min LeMay Media

Air pollution accounts for over 6 million deaths around the globe each year. This production gives viewers a thorough overview of air pollution, climate change and the resulting impact on human health. The program features Dr. Scott Weichenthal, Associate Professor of Epidemiology, Biostatistics, and Occupational Health at McGill University in Montreal.

The study of air pollution began in 1952 with The London Fog, a severe air pollution event primarily arising from the use of coal. This event spurred action by governments and researchers to minimize air pollution and to protect health. In this program, Dr. Scott discusses how a variety of contaminants such as volatile organic compounds, sulfur dioxide, carbon monoxide, nitrous oxide and particulate matter can impact human health.

The dynamic relationship between air pollution and climate change is also examined. Dr. Scott emphasizes that all is not 'doom and gloom'. There are many hopeful signs around the globe. Heavily populated and developing countries like China have made vast improvements in reducing emissions as well as actively promoting the use of electrical cars and renewable forms of energy. These positive actions are reasons to be hopeful.

In-Context Series

Grades 9-Post Sec 2016 CC 7 episodes x 5-8 min ea

Andrea Rose Lacalamita & Raja Mossaoui

Canadian society is changing. Canada has become the fastest growing country in the G7, and two-thirds of our population growth is coming from immigration. Now, seven out of every ten Canadians live in big city regions that represent almost 90 per cent of the country's population growth. It is clear that the future of Canada is based largely around its big cities, a phenomenon unlike anything we've ever known in this country.

This growth has brought new wealth and opportunity, and along with it, all of the challenges that come with big change. Issues of social inequality, increased poverty levels and environmental damage are constantly boiling to the surface of Canadian politics. Our response will be apparent in our architecture – in what we build and what we leave behind. Our challenge is to design cities and neighbourhoods that can act as the critical foundation for Canada's prosperity.

In-Context traveled across Canada collecting stories of real people and places, to report on the impact of recent architecture projects at the foreground of this great evolution of Canadian cities.

Titles included are:

1. Architecture and All of Its Parts – Montreal, QC
2. The Age of the Competitive City – Waterloo, ON
3. Defining a New Urban Frontier – Calgary, AB

The Bruce Documentary Series

Grade 5-12 2018 CC 3 x 50 min ea Living History

Beautiful cinematography, archival footage, paintings, photographs along with 3D and motion graphics are used to tell the stories of the Saugeen Ojibway, their relationship to the land, the colonization of the area and the arrival of the world's largest nuclear power station. Narrated by former radio personality and Drayton Theatre veteran, Neil Aitchison.

SPECIAL SERIES PRICE - ONLY $357 - a saving of $30 - Series Product #LIV027

The Fishing Chiefs

"The Fishing Chiefs", refers to those Saugeen Ojibway chiefs responsible for managing the fishery. By extension, this episode investigates the Ojibway relationship with their waters and lands, and with the visitors who arrive, some invited, like the Métis traders and Methodist missionaries, and some unwelcome: the commercial fishermen who invade the fishing grounds. Treaties push the Ojibway onto ever smaller territories but they continue the fight to have their fishing rights recognized, right up to the present day.

The Last Frontier

"The Last Frontier", is the colonization period. Surveyors lay out roads and divide the land into lots. Immigrants from Europe pour into Ontario to buy lots, start farming and survive a year of starvation. Many small towns are founded. Weather observers and storm signals warn mariners of bad weather. Lumbering extends even into the Greenock Swamp and furniture factories profit from easily available timber, but clear-cutting leads to destructive bush fires. The settlers' need for land impacts the Saugeen Ojibway and the Métis, and also alters the local ecosystems.

The Peaceful Path

In "The Peaceful Path", the Bruce passes through two wars and the Depression. A stagnant economy is stimulated by the arrival of the world's largest nuclear power plant. The revival is further boosted by an influx of tourists drawn to the county's natural beauty and two new national parks. Nature conservation becomes the new imperative, at forest preserves, nature reserves and bird sanctuaries. The Greenock Swamp gains protection, as does the Niagara Escarpment, through the efforts of the Bruce Trail organization. The Bruce is energized and foresees a peaceful future for all peoples, Ojibway, Métis and European.

This powerful film explores the change in attitude from pride in big dams as engineering wonders to the growing awareness that our own future is bound to the life and health of our rivers. Dam removal has moved beyond the fictional Monkey Wrench Gang to go mainstream. Where obsolete dams come down, rivers bound back to life, giving salmon and other wild fish the right of return to primeval spawning grounds, after decades without access. DamNation’s majestic cinematography and unexpected discoveries move through rivers and landscapes altered by dams, but also through a metamorphosis in values, from conquest of the natural world to knowing ourselves as part of nature.

Girls are natural-born scientists, mathematicians, and engineers, but societal gender roles -- overt and subliminal, can undermine their confidence and discourage them from pursuing an education and future in science and technology. Using peer real-life experiences, "Girls Build the Future" gives girls awareness and knowledge to help them pursue their interests in science and technology through high school and beyond.

Girls Build the Future is an effective mentoring program that can be used in the classroom to build confidence and skills which will support students as they pursue their scientific passions and add their talents and insights to various fields.

Humans vs Animals

Humans have sharp senses, which we use explore our environment. Vibrations in the air, light, and chemicals in our food and in the air give us the information we need to survive. But some animals have taken those senses and, through evolution, turned them into marvels of biological engineering.

"A sweeping cinematic look at the politics of breastfeeding and birth" - Michelle Latimer

Nominated Best Documentary at the Hollywood Film Festival

According to UN estimates, the lives of 1.4 million infants could be saved by breastfeeding. The organization reminds that children who are breastfed are six times more likely to survive the early months than those who aren't. In countries lacking resources, this is a matter of life and death, as is shown in this documentary. Through an intimate and artistic lens, Milk brings a universal perspective on the politics, commercialization and controversies surrounding birth and infant feeding over the canvas of stunningly beautiful visuals and poignant voices from around the globe. Inspiring, informative, provocative and sensitive, Milk celebrates bringing a new life into this world with a strong call to action and reflection.

A Ripple on Life

Grades 9-Post Sec 2017 CC 90 min Nettel Media Inc.

When Ugandan women who are in labour head to the hospital, packing an overnight bag filled with baby clothes and their slippers is far from their minds. Instead, they haul 200 litres of water in jugs, as well as medical supplies.

Maternal infection is the second-leading cause of death in Uganda.

Contributing to this is the lack of clean water, as well as poor transportation routes to get to hospital and the fact that Ugandan women have, on average, seven children each.

At Kawolo Hospital there are only four doctors on staff to treat the 300 patients who arrive at the hospital daily seeking care. Without clean water, doctors, midwives and nurses can't wash their hands properly nor clean the surgical instruments and operating room.

This film follows a group of Canadian volunteers, specifically a teacher and a student, who set-up a clean water system at the maternity ward of a hospital in Uganda, which operated with almost no water. In the process of establishing the clean water system, the audience learns first hand from the Ugandan people about the different limitations and challenges that exist at the maternity ward and the hospital. The volunteers also experience a process of personal change in this trip that transforms their lives forever.

What role do modern science and technology factors play in achieving new peaks of human performance?

Every year, athletes set new world records. But are today's champions really superior to legends of the past? Or are they only faster because their equipment is more high-tech? To find out, renowned sports scientist Steve Haake meets five top winter athletes, and challenges them to beat the world records of athletic legends while using old-school gear. Haake examines the variables that go into their winning performance for each athlete and explores variables such as: enhanced athletic gear, training, nutrition and psychology. Then, for the first time ever, Haake equalizes the playing field and challenges them to compete against a legendary athlete using equipment from a bygone era. In every event, the winner is impossible to predict. Taken together, the matchups reveal the effect of technological advances on performance, and something shared by athletes of every era: the innate human drive to win.

Risk Factor

Grades 9-Post Sec 2018 CC 60 min Kensington Communications

One of the most basic tenets of safety is preventing incidents before they happen, rather than mitigating the damage after the fact. This involves being able to identify risks and addressing them through corrective actions. And yet, risk surrounds us everywhere we look – everything from natural disasters to heightened cholesterol can factor into a reduced lifespan.

The Canada Safety Council launched a national safety campaign with an aim toward improving the ability of Canadians to better identify and assess risky behaviours.

In this new documentary, Risk Factor explores and demystifies personal and societal risks through discussion with some of the world’s top risk experts including an extreme ice climber, a physicist in a nuclear reactor and a security guru at the finish line of the Boston Marathon.

Measurement

Hamza wants to measure everything about Koolkatt that has changed since he was a teeny-weeny little robot-kitten - but how? It turns out there are a lot of different ways to measure the world around us. To find out more, we'll meet a Viking ship builder, walk the plank in clown shoes, and make our own gooey worms!

Zero

Do you ever like to just think about nothing? Hamza does - he's been thinking about the number zero! For a number with absolutely nothing to it, it's awfully important. You can make number lines, Cartesian planes...you can even make other numbers magically disappear. There's nothing better than nothing!

Kindness Counts: How to Make a Real Difference

Grades 1-4 2018 CC 6 x 8-12 min ea Stature Films
Includes a downloadable PDF of discussion topics

In this new video series, internationally renowned youth speaker Anthony McLean sits down with students in grades 1 through 4 to talk about the issues they face in their friendships and their classrooms everyday. Students weigh in on how they can show kindness to their peers to make school a fun and friendly place for everyone. This series also features a special performance of the original song, “Stand Up, Reach Out, Tell Someone” by Anthony McLean, as well as interviews with experts and community leaders. Series includes:

Competition: When competition crosses the line

Games should be fun for everyone, but when we get too competitive, games at recess can be hurtful, instead of fun. We need to make sure we’re not going too far.

Loyalty: We can all choose our friends

“If you’re my friend, you can’t play with her!” Just because you’re friends with one person, doesn’t mean you can’t play with other kids, too. No one should tell you who you can and cannot be friends with.

Teasing: Words are powerful

Words can be really hurtful. And saying “just kidding” doesn’t always make that hurt go away. We have to be careful with our words, and be quick to say sorry when we make mistakes.

Feelings: It’s okay to be mad

Anger is normal, but what should we do when we feel that way? We need to learn how to stop and cool down when we get mad. We also need to learn how to talk about our feelings.

Ignore it!: Dealing with mean people

What do you do if someone is bothering you? What’s the difference between telling and tattling? Anthony talks to kids about what is helpful in a friendship and what is hurtful.

Bystanders: When to get involved

Using his original song “Stand Up, Reach Out, Tell Someone”, Anthony makes his message about bullying memorable for kids.

Includes a downloadable PDF of discussion topics

In this engaging Canadian-produced series, internationally renowned youth speaker Anthony McLean leads a group of students in grades 5 through 8 in a discussion about friendships, competition and inclusion. Anthony invites the students to reflect on how “harmless teasing” and competitiveness can impact their friendships. Students are encouraged to make their own commitments, choosing things they can do every week to make their classroom and school a more positive place. This series also features a special performance of Anthony’s original song, “Don’t Go There”, as well as interviews with experts and community leaders. Series includes:

Friendship Matters

What does a good friend look like? We can’t always be friends with everyone, but we can always be friendly.

Too Much Competition

Recess should be fun. When games are full of put-downs and criticisms, it’s not a normal part of being competitive, it’s mean.

Dealing with Mean People

Mean people are everywhere; how do you handle them? It’s best not to take their negativity to heart. Believe in yourself and surround yourself with people who believe in you too!

How to Help a Friend

Bystanders have so much power in a bullying situation! They can tell the bully to stop; they can reach out and support the victim; or, if the situation is really serious, they can get help.

Too Much Drama

Gossip and rumours create a toxic environment! If you wouldn’t say it to someone’s face, don’t say it behind their back!

Too Much Teasing

‘Don’t Go There’ zones! Using his original song, “Don’t Go There!”, Anthony uses music to make his message about teasing memorable for kids.

Trouble with Social Media

Think before you click. It’s easy to hide behind a screen and write nasty comments, but you probably wouldn’t say it in person. Being a kind person includes what you say online.

Grades 9-12 2018 CC 7 x 8-12 min ea Stature Films
Includes a downloadable PDF of discussion topics

In this Canadian-produced series, internationally renowned youth speaker Anthony McLean sits down with high school students to lead them in discussion about the issues they face in their relationships with friends and schoolmates everyday. The students get real and give their opinions on why gossiping is so easy, why preventing bullies is so hard, and what the true cost of popularity is. This series also features a special performance of an original song "Treat 'Em Well" by Anthony McLean, as well as interviews with experts and community leaders.

Series includes:

Bullying

You don't have to like everyone but you do have to respect everyone. Using his original song, "Treat 'em Well", Anthony speaks to high school students at their level in an engaging and memorable way.

Conflict and Drama

Learning how to co-exist with people you disagree with is a major life skill. Gossip and drama can be exciting, but is that the right choice for the people involved, including you?

The Bystanders

Bullying happens every day in school, which means a lot of students become bystanders. Bystanders often play the most important role in conflict. Always ask yourself this question, "what would I want people to do for me if I was in this situation?"

Being Bullied

High school students discuss how bullying is even worse now that social media means kids can get nasty both online and in person.

Gossip

Those who gossip with you will eventually gossip about you. When talking about everyone else's drama affects your own friendships, is it worth it?

Popularity and Friendship

It's better to build genuine relationships than to chase after fake ones. Students lend their own wisdom on what a true friendship looks like, how to spot a toxic one and whether the cost of popularity is really worth it.

"McINTYRE MEDIA IS VERY EXCITED ABOUT OUR NEW RELATIONSHIP WITH ANTHONY MCLEAN"

STARRING

Anthony McLean

Anthony McLean is excited to present his brand new course of educational content that speaks directly to the challenges of today's students.

As a motivational speaker, rapper, and YouTuber, Anthony is a seasoned presenter who travels around North America, teaching youth about Leadership, Diversity, Mental Health, and Bullying. He combines his high energy style with hip hop music to teach practical strategies that students can use right way.

New for the 2018/2019 school year, we have three age-appropriate courses, each featuring six to seven programs and a downloadable Q & A PDF with discussion questions for each video. Programs range in length from 8-12 minutes each and include topics like conflict, drama, social media and digital citizenship.

There is a course for Grades 1-4, Grades 5-8, and for high school students. Each course features Anthony speaking directly to the camera, as well as segments where students share their thoughts on each topic. There are also guest appearances from best-selling author and family counselor Alyson Schafer; co-founders of 'My Life Online' Blake and Dave; YouTubers Jessii Vee & Mandii Vee & more. Teachers love this resource because students do too.

Rising Above

Grades 7-12 2016 CC 90 min Stature Films

Rising Above is a Canadian-produced documentary that sheds light on the issue of bullying within our schools and online. It tells the stories of ten Canadians who have either been the targets of bullying or a person who bullied others in the past — their stories of hope, growth and courage in overcoming and rising above the challenges they faced.

This film is unique in that it focuses on both the bullies and those who have been bullied. Rising Above provides a source of hope for those currently being bullied, and empowers students to be more understanding, more accepting, and an even bigger help to those around us who are struggling with challenges of their own. This film features education developed by the Canadian Red Cross and their Respect Education Program. It was also endorsed by the Safe Schools Network.

Learn the story of how Pink Shirt Day started with an intimate interview with Travis Price. Meet Lynelle Cantwell who courageously stood up to her bullies and responded positively. And hear from TED-featured Canadian Spoken Word Artist Shane Koyczan, who reveals a side of being bullied that he still wrestled with today.

At least 1 in 3 adolescents in Canada have reported being bullied. The Canadian Institutes of Health Research states, “bullying can have both short and long-term impacts on someone’s physical and psychological health. Victims often feel lonely, isolated and unsafe. Researchers have also shown that bullying can lead to depression, anxiety, low self-esteem and physical illness. In extreme cases, bullying can be fatal.”

Inspire by Example

Grades 7-Post Sec 2017 CC 60 min Chris Cull

A documentary about the prevalence of prescription drug abuse in Canada, and the effects of addiction on users and their loved ones.

Addiction is a disease, and that disease is progressive. For Chris Cull, his disease led him to hit rock bottom. From here, he made the decision to move forward. In the summer of 2014, Chris bicycled 7500 kilometres across Canada from Victoria, BC to St.

Johns, Newfoundland to spread awareness and document stories of prescription drug use and how it has affected Canadians across the country.

At the age of 22, triggered by the loss of his father, Chris turned to prescription medication to numb the pain. He narrates his experience of turning into a person he never thought possible. From lying and stealing, to pushing away those that mattered most in his life, Chris felt that hitting that all time low was a real wake up call. It was at that point he decided to set out on a road to recovery.

Many people living with addiction are diamonds in the rough – we need to be able to see beyond what’s on the surface and remember that prescription drug abuse not only affects the user, but simultaneously those around them: parents, siblings, co-workers, friends, partners, grandparents – the list goes on. With this documentary, Chris, now a nationally recognized speaker and mental health advocate hopes to spark a nation-wide dialogue on an increasingly prevalent and serious issue.

Fentanyl: The Deadliest Opioid

Grades 7-12 2018 CC 20 min Human Relations Media

This program arms viewers with the most updated information on Fentanyl, an opioid drug responsible for thousands of accidental overdose deaths. The program describes how Fentanyl is made in dirty, illegal labs and that drug dealers often mix it with heroin and sell it to whoever is looking for a cheap high. Viewers will learn that Fentanyl is 100 times more powerful than heroin and only a miniscule amount, the equivalent of three grains of salt, is needed to kill an adult. The program also alerts viewers to a sister drug, carfentanyl, which the Toronto Sun called “the drug of mass destruction,” because it is 100 times more powerful than Fentanyl and 10,000 times more powerful than morphine. This program speaks directly to young people in a way they will understand: Hard hitting and memorable, the video delivers strong no use message to anyone thinking of experimenting with Fentanyl or carfentanyl.

Personal Abuse: W5

Grades 11-Post Sec 2018 32 min CC CTV
 Who's looking after your loved ones in their home, and who's protecting personal care workers from their patients? In this investigation by Sandie Rinaldo, W5 tried to find out how many seniors are assaulted in their homes by care workers. Ontario's long-term care act requires facilities to report incidents to the province and to police. But at home it's up to the families to take action and not all do. It's also up to agencies to do background checks on the PSWs they are sending to look after innocent seniors. It doesn't always happen.

A Ripple on Life

Grades 7-Post Sec 2017 90 min Nettel Media Inc.

Explores clean water's impact on life and death in Uganda.

When Ugandan women who are in labour head to the hospital, packing an overnight bag filled with baby clothes and their slippers is far from their minds. Instead, they haul 200 litres of water in jugs, as well as medical supplies.

Maternal infection is the second-leading cause of death in Uganda. Contributing to this is the lack of clean water, as well as poor transportation routes to get to hospital and the fact that Ugandan woman have, on average, seven children each.

This film follows a group of Canadian volunteers, specifically a teacher and a student, who set-up a clean water system at the maternity ward of a hospital in Uganda, which operated with almost no water. In the process of establishing the clean water system, the audience learns first hand from the Ugandan people about the different limitations and challenges that exist at the maternity ward and the hospital. The volunteers also experience a process of personal change in this trip that transforms their lives forever.

 Gender Splendour Week at The Grove Community School in Toronto promotes mental health wellness, community activism, and social justice. In this documentary, children and teachers from the school were interviewed during Gender Splendour week. Amid workshops, non-binary-conforming and cisgender identifying children have the opportunity to ponder, question, and defy gender stereotypes, which are prevalent in society, culture, and the media. The documentary suggests that this progressive approach should be adopted in all schools across Canada to increase awareness of violence against LGBT children and teens. The goal of the film is to sensitize viewers to the struggles this group of children experiences in the educational system, and to help reduce the high rate of self-destructive behaviours and suicide within this vulnerable group.

"...a brutally poignant documentary." – The Globe and Mail

The Woman Who Joined The Taliban is the personal and tragic story of a woman's quest for truth amidst the global war on terrorism. Beverley Giesbrecht was a successful Canadian publishing executive and devout Christian living near Vancouver before the events of 9/11 changed her life forever. Within seven months she had converted to Islam and was on a path that would lead to her 2008 kidnapping and disappearance in the Taliban heartland.

Beverley's story illuminates why some people in Western societies become drawn to Islamic extremism — sometimes with disastrous consequences.

At its heart, The Woman Who Joined the Taliban is the tragic story of a lost woman looking for meaning and a home -- but who walks into hell. Beverley was never able to bring home the film she meant to make. This film will bring her extraordinary story to light.

How to Recognize Fake News Series

Grades 9-Post Sec 2018 23 min each Films Media Group

Think of fake news as a disease. Without knowing how to identify and stop its spread, information literacy is at risk, especially among audiences whose critical thinking skills are vulnerable. This video series equips viewers with tools to spot the stories and images that are false, biased, altered or slanted, even those shared by trusted friends or family. Easy tips to detect and check fake news will encourage scrutinizing material for opinion, inaccuracy or misrepresentation. Target audiences learn how to avoid being duped by fake news and may be less quick to click until they know what's real and what's not.

Lightfoot: W5

Grades 7-Post Sec 2017 CC 20 min CTV

W5's Lloyd Robertson sits down for a rare interview with singer-songwriter and Canadian music icon Gordon Lightfoot, who at the age of 79 is still on the road touring. From his first Canadian hit in 1962 to the final concert at Massey Hall in 2018 before it closes for renovations, Lightfoot has toured continuously and has become known as Canada's troubador. He had a string of gold and platinum albums in the 70's and 80's, he is in the Canadian Music Hall of Fame, and is a Governor General's Award winner. His songs have been recorded by scores of famous Canadian and international musicians, from Ian and Sylvia to Elvis Presley. His family and friends know him for his unselfish generosity, fairness and genuine loyalty. In his home town of Orillia, ON, two statues honour their famous national music treasure.

The Maker of Monsters: The Extraordinary Life of Beau Dick

Grades 9-Post Sec 2017 92 min CC Athene Films Inc. WINNER Cultural Currents Award: 2018 Victoria Film Festival Official Selection: Vancouver International Film Festival "The film touches on Indigenous history in Canada and how Dick's masks are an important learning tool in an era of truth and reconciliation." – Toronto Star

Maker of Monsters gives an intimate look into the life of one of Canada's greatest artists. The late Beau Dick was a Kwakwaka'wakw carver from Alert Bay, a small remote village on the Northwest Coast of British Columbia. His remarkable masks have been celebrated across the global art scene as vibrant expressions of West Coast Indigenous culture and a sophisticated crossover into the contemporary art world. Dick had an unprecedented ability to tap into the collective memory of his people and breathe new life into age-old traditions.

This episode of The Green Interview features Eugene Friesen, a Grammy award-winning cellist and composer who teaches at the Berkley School of Music in Boston and who integrates the sounds of the natural world into everything he does. He plays the cello as a squirrel might play it, as a bear might play, as a great master like Pablo Casals played it. His compositions embrace the songs of whales and songbirds. He is also a great believer in listening deeply and paying profound and contemplative attention and being truly present in the world, activities that our traditional educations, whether in music or in other disciplines, really attempt to drive out of us.

BEST PICTURE – Rendezvous with Madness Film Festival

Out of the shadowy world of Vancouver's Gastown, Ken Foster emerges as an enigmatic figure. A prolific artist, Foster is known as much for his beautifully distorted renditions of iconic cityscapes as he is for peddling them on the streets to support a serious crack habit and subdue a schizophrenic mind. Inside Ken's squalid hotel room we are privy to an intimate look at life in the city's most unforgiving neighbourhood and Foster's fragmented approach to his relationship and his work. When Ken's considerable talent is put to the test in Vancouver's Art Battle competition, what emerges is a gut-wrenching portrait of a man caught in conflict between ambition, ego and the desperation of needing his next fix.

Why are less than 50% of music producers female?

Play Your Gender

Grades 11-Post Sec 2016 CC 80 min

Indiecan Entertainment

PLAY YOUR GENDER is a documentary on the realities of being a woman in the music industry. The songs we consume and the musicians we revere say a lot about our culture's values and the multi-billion dollar music industry has a huge social and economic impact on our society. Through these conversations, we aim to uncover how and why the gendered authorship gap exists despite the immense talent and popularity of female musicians.

Juno Award-winning musician Kinnie Starr is on a quest to find out why only 5% of music producers are women even though many of the most bankable pop stars are female. What does it take for a woman to make it in music?

Spotlight on Matt LeMay

Matt is one of Canada's most prolific educational video producers. He has been honoured with many awards and successfully created over 400 pieces of high production video content for a variety of clients across Canada. Matt was thrilled to receive the 2016 Rising Star Award at the Canada International Film Festival in Vancouver and the 2011 & 2013 Award of Excellence in Filmmaking at the Canada International Film Festival for his films Great River and Native Young.

Matt has written and produced a number of video titles for McIntyre Media. These programs have provided students across the country with a wealth of information on topics such as Indigenous culture and history, environmental science and climate change. Matt's ability to convey relevant curriculum-related content in a concise and interesting manner set his programs apart from others and make them some of our best-sellers.
